Dear Mrs. Lakatoun,

was a bit relieved to hear from you, picture of falling down stairs etc. How had an occasional word from J.E.L., I hope he will do better with summer on, I may get up there. Harriet gained in springiness the last year, but worthy to raise pity on, physical derelict, rather, & other.

I got to looking at J. Smith's Warbiggenus the other day, & then at Ripogenus. St. Leger has Warbiggenus an Abn. village, Flouret R. → traces probably error, anyway Archer has traces. It, as a history person, you know right on its location etc. --.

It is the remainder of Ripogenus that set me speculating, of course. As I think we have remarked on before, Prohians do not respond to Ripogenus as we say it, I know none known one to.
