

In the early history of the hospital there was one horse kept and a carryall for the females to ride. As the institution increased in size they procured carryall and a span of horses for females to ride. ~~They~~ Patients are now taken to drive when the horses are not otherwise in use. That matter was called to the attention of the legislature by the superintendents in their reports, and the means for that purpose were increased. I think that the greatest exhibitors in the moral treatment. I have proved it so in my experience. There was nothing of that sort regularly practiced in the asylum when I first entered it as there is now. We have music twice a week and on Sundays, and some music in the wards among the attendants. Since I have been there 2 pianos and an organ have been introduced, and a music hall constructed to which patients resort twice a week and Sunday afternoons. Devotional exercises are conducted by the chaplain every <sup>Sunday</sup> afternoon in the chapel. The patients participate. I regard that
