Dear William Burg

Sir I find that a Cook is now striving to make Peace with you he has I am told got a word to write you take Care what you say I think the best way is not to say any thing or at least nothing more than to answer the letter - he will Protest that if you will be his friend he will be yours but have nothing to do with him he finds he has no friends and now he wishes to make up with you but if he can't find any to help him here wants done all in his Power to Provent you from having one Walter Lockington I am your friend you know and always have done all I could for your good and will to do - I am your Servant
