Ques. Have had given no notice of your intention to make this round. Ans. No sir.

Ques. By whose request or invitation did you make the visit. Ans. I think by the request of the trustees.

Ques. Did you go into the various lodge rooms and lodge halls. Ans. We went into the various lodge halls; there is an opening at the bottom of the door at each lodge room from an inch and a half to two inches; I set the thermometer down at the door, did not open the door into the room, and took the temperature at that point. I think the highest was 65 and the lowest 56.

Ques. Can you tell about the difference in temperature at the floor and up the height of a man's head. Ans. I know that heat rises and the cold air takes the lowest point in the room. The temperature of the halls at that time was a good deal higher.

Ques. Do you know whether the steam had been turned off earlier than usual that night. Ans. I learned afterwards that it was turned off earlier than usual; cannot tell what time it was turned off, several hours before we made our visit.

Ques. What is your judgment as to the sufficiency of
