Dear Mrs. Seaborn,

Thanks as always, for your going to your trailer. It's fun to have you hitting it along. Incidly someone gave me big mountains for Mattawamkeag, & Awkook is Kettle & there is a round Kettle's hill just north of the lake.

You mention Mattawamkeag as into Mattawamkeag, but it is a stream down from north, parallel with Penobscot, & not far away; erupts 2 miles above ^{from it} Mattawamkeag mouth, into Penobscot. No contour sheet: but what I get from flat maps bunches toward the long string in Rattles of Mats—, all means is bad. My English {Ind. Rattles gets them (the mats)—all in a list. A long straight dead water shows now, per a dam I assume, & the look of everything gives me, as a woodsman, a poor feelj.

After we talked wirecast & my mind set up again, it came back that-
