

in some form or another; some times there are more and some times less. There are extemporaneous prescriptions daily in addition to those,

Q. So far as your treatment of the insane is concerned you treat them by drugs don't you? A. Yes sir. The 50 2 spoke of are taking drugs.

Q. You were asked about your vision. Do you think you are as well able to discharge your duties as though your vision was perfect? ~~A. Yes sir.~~

A. Perhaps not. When patients come in I can learn all about their cases, and with my assistant, I can ~~learn~~ get all the necessary information. I should have to get it in a large measure from the assistant. I examine them closely as they come in. A part of my information I get from attendants.

In the report of this year there are 57 patients reported as cured. Don't think I could tell exactly how many of those had been there before.

Some of them might have been there once or twice or three times,
